

Egypt releases US wheat cargo after testing

Contributed by Egypt News
Monday, 02 November 2009

Egyptian authorities released a detained U.S. red wheat cargo on Sunday after testing showed it was fit for consumption

The 63,000-tonne shipment had arrived in Port Said last week and had been undergoing testing, according to official Middle East News Agency.

An Egyptian quarantine official told Reuters last week that a U.S. shipment was being held for testing after officials found an excessive amount of seeds on first inspection.

EGYPT NEWS